Well, Folks - spring again!! Brilliant white snowdrops thrusting (memories, memories...) through the green virgin turf (turf ~ from the old Anglo-Saxon "time-consuming mud") and delightful young lambs frollicking in the freezing snow. So, obviously time to get out and see rugby again!! The family is probably sick to death of you hanging around the house, anyway... .

And what a Championship this is to be - Wales rampant last year, with some magical rugby - but held back now, by injuries? France the other "favorits grenouillaise", but perhaps surprisingly inconsistent in years past? England, World Champions maybe, but yet to restructure and find cohesion in the backs. Ireland, strongly fancied before last year's Championship, yet disappointing in it - & now back to full strength (+ a special welcome back to Brian O'Driscoll! ps did one notice that Tana Thingy Umwhatsit, the wondrous NZ Spear-Tackler, has retired from International rugby, lest - sorry, I mean, before - he meets Mr. O'D again?) Scotland, Italy... courage in buckets, yet both still struggling to make an impact at this level.

Top dog turnout expected - so 2 big screens (1 in the "no smoking" room), and 35 TV's (watch for the new widescreen TV's now being rolled out across the bar!!) and lots of warm, delicious barmaids - whoops, I mean food. And please bring lots of money! This season, our sponsors have generously helped us create some mega-fashion gear (Dead butch? You will be!) for you to take home & pose in, all over town!! And ALL proceeds go towards developing Youth Rugby in Hungary... .

Today's tricky question - why do Australia keep losing rugby games? (OK, & cricket, too - Ed.) In support of our Australian friends, our un-subscribe opportunity this week is dedicated to them. You are kindly invited to de-subscribe by sending "Dang my Kangy-Roo", as the title of your very own unsubscribe request. I'll understand.

Cheers, All,
